

Bat Man (Chirogon*)

On the banks of the Mukwonago River dwells a very tall, very dark humanoid. The creature stands at least seven feet tall and has features part human and part bat or reptile. Its eyes are extremely large and pitch black, though any light glints off them. The creature is covered in what looks like dark, heavy scales and appears to have considerable strength. Upon closer inspection, it has bat-like wings wrapped around the back of its body. The party might reasonably conclude that this humanoid is something more than a bat, but something slightly less than a dragon. On both the ground and in the air, the creature moves extremely quickly.

Large Humanoid, Chaotic

---

Armor Class 17
Hit Points 72 (7d10+35)
Speed 60' flying; 40' on the ground

---

STR	DEX	CON	INT	WIS	CHA
18 (+4)	16 (+3)	15 (+2)	6 (-2)	14 (+2)	20 (+5)

---

Skills	Perception +7, Stealth +4
Senses	Blindsight: 60'
Languages	Common, Draconic
Challenge	CR7 (2,900 XP)

ACTIONS

---

Melee	2 attacks from: Bite +10 (1d8+5) Claw +7 (1d4+5)
Breath Weapon	60' line of acid (7d6 acid); DC 18, half damage

*Named by Matthew Pelot

